Help bring the world together,
one friendship at a time.

Brighton High School

25 WARREN STREET, BRIGHTON, MASSACHUSETTS 02135

THESE YEARS HAVE PASSED TOO QUICKLY. ALTHOUGH WE CANNOT TURN BACK THE HANDS OF TIME, WE CAN TURN THESE PAGES YEARS FROM NOW AND REFLECT.......We, the 1987 Gothic Staff, hope that you will use these pages to reflect on the good times you had at Brighton High School.

To the Class of '87

As I walk through the halls of Brighton High School for the last time, I realize that we have reached the end of a journey. We have often struggled with relationships, studies, ourselves, and we have won. We are leaving our childhood behind forever, this is the final step.

I am grateful to those who have led us to this point in our lives. For it was here we learned to reach for our dreams and if we catch them, we have learned to hold on tightly. Now we must let go.

Our memories of Brighton High School will accompany us out the front door, on our graduation day, and throughout our lives. These memories will never fade.

Leaving the "Castle on the Hill" for the last time, I am enlightened. This is not only an ending but also a beginning. A new day. Although we must not forget the past, we must always remember that we are the future.

HEADMASTERS MESSAGE

Juliette D. Johnson
Headmaster

TO THE CLASS OF 1987:

It is with tremendous pride that I bid farewell to the Class of 1987. Your youth, energy and zest for life; your successes and failures; all these must now serve you well as you prepare to face yet another exciting stage in your development and maturation.

In this, your year of graduation, as we celebrate the 200th birthday of our Constitution, it is important that you recognize the achievements of your forefathers - achievements realized because of their commitment to a goal, and their hard work to achieve that goal.

Our forefathers have left you a legacy - a legacy which must be maintained: rights which you must protect; responsibilities which you must meet; obligations which you must uphold, as you take your place in our society as productive citizens and community leaders.

On behalf of the administration and staff of Brighton High, I wish you all the successes, joys and fulfillment that your intellectual development and human kindness can provide.

Sincerely,

Juliette D. Johnson

Americans Abroad:

Brighton High Students On The Go

BHS students who have participated in this program are: Carlos Perez, Monica Cedeno. Leslie Ross, and Melinda Ho. Each had the opportunity to visit a foreign country during their summer vacation. Each experience was unique.

Monica Cedeno, Leslie Ross, and Melinda Ho have agreed to share their experiences with us.

(below) Richmond College Dormitory, where I lived for four weeks during my stay in London.

The Royal Wedding , St. Paul"s Cathedral, Hampton Court House, the Tube, Wimpy burgers , the London theatre---- all of these are part of my memories of London during the summer of 1986.

In the spring , I had applied for a grant from the American Institue of Foreign Study. I was thrilled and excited to be chosen to participate in the four-week program. I was the only one from Massachussetts to be assigned to study at Richmond College in Richmond Hill, just outside the city of London. In New York, however, I met other exchange students at Kennedy airport. I made lots of new friends on that eight-hour plane trip and at the college during my stay. My fears of loneliness and of homesickness soon disappeared.

At Richmond, I elected to pursue a course in photography. My classes were from nine to twelve , Monday through Friday. During my free time I did all kinds of sightseeing and picture-taking. Often at night we went to plays in London. I overdosed on plays such as "Me and My Girl," "Mutiny," "Noises Off," " 42nd Street," and "Side by Side." Some times on Friday night we went to the movies or disco dancing at the Empire. Weekends I went shopping and did more sightseeing----art galleries ,Buckingham Palace, Kew Gardens, and Madame Tussaud's famous wax museum.

When the last day arrived, we were all anxious to get home. Yet, at the same time, we were all feeling sad and deflated because we might never see each other again. We exchanged adresses and hoped to see each other again in the future. We had all shared so much together.

What did I gain from this exchange program? More than I could ever put into words! I had a chance to be independent and to live away from home. I was forced to depend upon myself, and I enjoyed this. I had the opportunity to make so many new friends, and to experience a different culture. I learned so much, and had a great time doing it!

Monica Cedeno:

During the summer of 1985, my wish came true. I was selected from among many students in Boston to participate in a European exchange program. I choose to participate in a six week home stay /travel program in France ssponsered by Didac , a non-profit organizzation dedicated to the promotion of educational and cultural exchanges between the US and France.

I was the only Brighton student going to Paris. This did not worry me, though. I have always wanted to visit France. When I was eight, I even wanted to be an artist on Montmartre. Now my dream was to be a reality.

I spent my first week in France in the exciting city of Paris. I stayed in a youth hotel with other Didac students. Together, we visited the Eiffel Tower, the Louvre Museum, the Palace of Versailles, the Tuilleries Gardens----all of the places I had only studied in French class. I had a chance to practice my French , but soon discovered I could understand better then I could communicate. I also tried all sorts of new foods. I actually ate rabbit stew, escargots (or snails!), mustard on my french fries, and warm Coke with no ice. By the end of the week I was tired but ecstatic.

Then I joined the French family with whom I would be staying--- Mr. and Mrs. Baldacci and their three chikdren Edward(19), Irene(17), and Lucille(15). They lived in the heart of Paris in a large private home. I even had my own room. The purpose of staying with a family was to see what daily French life was like. Luckily for me, the Baldacci's liked to travel and took me with them on there summer vacation. We traveled to Antibes in the south of France to visit family. We went to the beach, ate in restaurants, played tennis, and even miniature golf. Then we moved to the Baldacci's chalet in the Swiss mountains. I loved it there.

Last summer, I reciprocated by inviting Irene to come visit me. I enjoyed showing her around Boston. I even rented a car to drive to New York for a weekend.

My entire French stay was a great encounter. I'll never forget all the adventures and experiences I had. For students considering a foreign exchange program, I would like to urge them to sign up. It is the opportunity of a lifetime.

Leslie Ross

On May 22, 1986 I received terrific news from the Experiment in International Living. I had been chosen to be one of the four student ambassadors participating in a cultural-educational exchange program to England. My trip would consist of a three week homestay mixed with two weeks of travel. In June, I joined other participating students for a three day orientation program at Mount Herman, MA.

Finally, on June 25, we departed from Kennedy Airport for an 8-hour flight to London, England. My dreams had become a reality. We spent three days in London visitng places such as the Tower of London, Big Ben, Buckingham Palace (where I got a glimpse of the queen) and West Minister Abbey. All of London was excited about the upcoming royal wedding of Fergie and Andy.

Leaving London, I proceeded on my own to the lake district for a three-week homestay. My host family was Mr. and Mrs. Tottingham and their two sons Lawerence(5) and Stephan(7). They were outstanding! I was treated like a king---- and I enjoyed every minute of it. During my stay with them, I made many friends. I also learned to understand "English" English. For example, fags are cigarettes; crisps, potato chips; birds, girls; blokes, guys; chips, french fries. I quickly learned thaat words can have different meanings.

During this time, I also had the chance to visit Scotland where the Commonwealth Games were being held. These games are a famous international competition similar to the Olympics. In Scotland, I was amazed to see men wearing kilts or skirts. Some Americans found this humorous.

After three weeks with my host family, I rejoined my travel group. We had the chance to visit York, to see a play in Stratford-on-Avon, to tour Oxford University, and finally to return to London where I shopped and did more sightseeing. At a famous London disco, the Hippodrome, I saw the Chicago Bears who were in town for an exhibition game with the Dallas Cowboys. For the English, football is incomprehensible; they prefer soccer or rugby.

My trip to England was the ultimate learning experience. To describe the beauty and culture is very hard. Taking pictures and video taping cannot fully capture what I experienced. I can only urge other students to take advantage of the summer travel program. It is there for everyone. Don't be left in the dark about the world outside of Boston.

The Experiment in International Living is a model for cross-cultural education internationally. It gives motivated students the chance to experience life in a host country. If you are interested, apply today. It really is the chance of a lifetime.

It is our hope, that Leslie will get his pictures of England developed in time for our twenty-fifth reunion.

Essay

Carlos Perez

The four years of my high school experience can be summed up by the quote from Dickens' novel A Tale of Two Cities: "It was the best of times; it was the worst of times. It was the age of wisdom; it was the age of foolishness. It was the epoch of belief; it was the epoch of incredulity."

The best of times in my junior year were when I was playing hockey for the school. For the first time in four years Brighton High had a winning season. This was my second year playing goalie for Brighton High, and oh what a feeling! Our season ended with ten wins and two losses. That year I also received a summer scholarship to travel in Europe.

When I look back and comment on my grades, I say to myself I should have and could have gotten better grades. I think that the late nights out, with my friends going to parties were the worst part of my high school years, not because of the parties themselves, but because of the lack of studying.

What I learned in high school will always be with me. I learned to be independent in my studies and in my life. I learned that if I want something, I have to work for it becouse it won't come to me any other way. I also learned to communicate with other people. I learned to understand and feel compassion towards people who are not from this country.

Another great part of high school were the foolish times I had. For instance, making small, silly gestures at teachers when they spoke to me about my homework. Other times I made up funny stories about why I was tardy to class . During some classes my teacher would catch me talking for about the fourth time and the teacher would single me out. That's when I would put on my, "What are you talking about?", face. The whole class would laugh, and I would complain to the teacher that I wasn't the only one to blame. The class would laugh even more.

I believe that my school is one of the best educational institutions in Boston. Before starting high school I believed that school was not a learning place, but a playground for the teenagers in it. I also believed that Brighton High did not have a good reputation for learning, that proved to be very wrong. I am glad that I attended Brighton High School, the variety of ethnic groups represented here has been very interesting to me, and the many wonderful experiences that I had in high school will help guide me through life. These four years have made me a better person by giving me more knowledge about, what we used to call, the "Outside World".

Essay

Hung Trinn

Between the ages of 16 and 19, students feel very excited about life because they have just escaped from an immature age and have started in their new world, the adult world. They feel very interested in improving their knowledge, in gaining friendship and love. As a high school student, I look back on these years and can express them as Charles Dickens did in A Tale of Two Cities:

" It was the best of times; it was the worst of times. It was the age of wisdom; it was the age of foolishness. It was the epoch of belief; it was the epoch of incredulity."

Since the day I entered high school, I have felt very happy because I did well in my studies. In school, I made many friends to talk with on different subjects such as girls, love, studies, books, and movies. I also spent my time enjoying the many clubs that I participated in. In Math club, I did well which made my advisor satisfied. However, the happiest time was going to the stage and receiving certificates of honor. It showed everyone that I did so well. These were the best of times for me.

I also had the worst times which I will never forget. One of those was an ESL test. I read the directions carelessly, and I got everything wrong from the start. I failed the test which caused me to get a B for that term. I really hated myself. It was a horrible time. I then promised myself I would never fail any more tests.

Also in these years, I sometimes felt very wise in my studies. I could solve a difficult Math problem precisely and rapidly, which I had never expected. I also felt very wise in writing essays and compositions. In these, I could use new vocabulary which I had recently memorized.

On the other hand, I also felt very foolish sometimes. I could not follow an easy lesson which a teacher explained at the board. In addition, I was unable to think straight or to concentrate in a contest, but this rarely happened. In class, I, once in a while, ignored the teacher and daydreamed.

Through these high school years, I was not only improving my knowledge, but also gaining self-confidence. I found myself able to do some things that were difficult. If I concentrated hard enough and spent enough time, I got it done,and did it well. I felt belief in myself.

Friends were always people I put my belief in. Sometimes I misjudged people. I got this conclusion from my own experience. There was a friend who studied at the same grade as I did. When I got my SAT score, he really wanted to see how well I did. Vice-versa I also wanted to see his, but he did not show it off even though he promised to do so. Instead, he just said he got a very low score. Surprisingly, I overheard someone say he got 550, another said 650, and another said over 700. I got totally upset and no longer considered him a friend.

I will never forget my high school years They were full of smiles and tears. It was exciting making new friends, and improving knowledge. It was also enjoyable participating in clubs. The experiences were valuable for my future life.

ESSAY

Cynthia Bustion

A Tale of Two Cities describes my days at Brighton High School so well.

The best of times was when I got good grades in my subjects, especially the ones where I had expected to get lower grades . During my first two complete years at Brighton High I did not have that many friends, but in my last year I became very friendly with other students. I started to get involved in different activities. I even tried out for student council, where I had to get up in front of all the senoir class students and give a speech. That was an experience that I will never forget. I was also involved with the cheerleaders; for a person like myself that seemed like a miracle.

I think the worst of times was when I transferred back to Brighton High after going to the Burke for a year and a half. I only knew one person from Brighton High. That was my friend, Magdalena, whom I had known for years, ever since we were in kindergarden together. I had second thoughts about coming back to Brighton High, because I thought the students would act very unfriendly towards me. At this time of my life it was hard for me to make friends because I was very shy. When I finally did come back to Brighton High, I found that it was hard to catch up with the other kids, since I had not started from the beginning and I had missed so much already. In a way that is why I hesitated in coming back to Brighton High.

I have gotten a lot of wisdom from Brighton High. I learned that if you treat people with respect they will give you respect in return. If you do not have a positive attitude towards yourself, you will never get anywhere in life. I also learned that I would not get anywhere as long as I kept to myself and kept all of my ideas and opinions locked up inside myself. I decided to express myself no matter what people's opinions of me might be. In life you are always going to meet people who like you and who do not like you for one reason or another.

I have found that there has been a lot of foolishness at Brighton High. Some kids cut classes knowing that they were going to be written up by the teacher. Some of my friends would gossip too much. Sometimes on the terrace we would be so loud that people would yell out of the windows at us telling us to be quiet.

One of my beliefs was to get the best education that I could, because I had seen so many kids who had dropped out of school and who had regretted it. I also believed in giving people a chance and not judging them too hastily. I believed that I could learn to reach all my goals, and to make the best of my life.

Some of my incredulity centered on the public's unfavorable attitude towards the Boston Public School system. How could they expect us to feel good about ourselves as long as they kept putting us down. I also did not believe in having a rude attitude towards other people, especially those who are trying to help you.

These events in my life at Brighton High are described by the words of Charles Dickens in A Tale of Two Cities. These have been special moments in my life; I will never forget them.
